

Evolving Agility Manifesto

We are continuously seeking, discovering and embracing better ways of developing software that contributes significantly to the success of our clients' ventures. In doing so, we have come to value the following principles:

Business agreements are only useful if they foster collaboration

Intelligent designs only make sense if they embrace evolution

Project management should only be used to support the endeavour for excellence

Source code should only exist to provide sustainable business results

What you see only matters if it really is what you get

While there is value in the items on the left, they are only means to an end in achieving the items on the right, which we value most.

Together, they combine to form our credo:

Foster collaboration, embrace evolution, endeavour for excellence, and sustainable business results is what you get.
